MISSOURI EDUCATOR
MAIN SPEAKER AT UM
DURING NHS CONFERENCE

MISSOULA---

A Missouri educator will be main speaker Saturday (Dec. 16) during the Montana National Honor Society Conference on the University of Montana campus. Purpose of the conference is to discuss future developments in relation to NHS.

Also participating in the program will be Bjarne Johnson, Great Falls, UM student president of Phi Kappa Phi national scholarship honorary, and six students from Butte Senior High School.

The Missouri man is Blaine Steck, Hickman Mills, Mo., who is principal of Ruskin High School and who was instrumental in establishing a state NHS association in Missouri. He will discuss the NHS program at 10:15 a.m. Saturday in the Territorial Rooms in the Lodge on the Missoula campus.

Johnson speaks at 10 a.m. in the Lodge about the "Place of Scholarship at the University of Montana."

The six Butte high school students--Harry Plate, Jim Casebeer, Tom Williams, Jennifer Lynch, Peggy Plett and Martha Stadler--will participate in a model NHS ritual at 3 p.m. in the UM Music Recital Hall. Other representatives from Butte Senior High will include Forrest Wilson, school principal, and Robert Emerson and Bob Rae, both BSH counselors.

Approximately 100 high school advisers and their guests are expected from throughout the state for conference. School representatives from as far away as Ekalaka and Baker in Southeastern Montana are expected.

Conference registration at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Lodge will precede a welcoming address by UM President Robert T. Pantzer.
